Partnership Launches Improved Website and Dedicated Resource to Help Communities Navigate Medi-Cal Changes

FAIRFIELD – As California prepares for significant changes to Medi-Cal in 2027, Partnership HealthPlan of California is taking steps to help members, providers, and communities stay informed and connected to the resources they need. Partnership has launched an improved website at PartnershipHP.org, along with a dedicated online resource, KeepYourMediCal.org, to make it easier to find reliable, up-to-date information about Medi-Cal coverage.

For a parent trying to understand whether their child's health coverage will change or an older adult wondering what a new Medi-Cal requirement means for them, finding clear answers should not be another source of stress. Having clear and accessible information can make a meaningful difference.

Recognizing this need, Partnership has improved its website with a more user-friendly experience designed to help visitors find important information and services more easily. The updated website features improved navigation, more accessible content, and a streamlined design that makes it simpler for members, providers, and community partners to connect with the information they need.

“Real people and families depend on Medi-Cal to access health care,” said Sonja Bjork, CEO at Partnership. “We know that changes to health coverage can raise questions and create uncertainty. Our responsibility is to make it as easy as possible for the people we serve to find answers, understand what these changes may mean for them, and know where to turn for help. These new online resources are one way we’re putting that commitment into action.”

In addition to the improved website, Partnership has created KeepYourMediCal.org, a dedicated resource to help communities understand and prepare for upcoming Medi-Cal changes. The site brings together important updates, answers to common questions, and helpful resources in one convenient location. As new information becomes available, Partnership will continue updating the site to help members and community partners stay informed.

“People shouldn’t have to search through complicated information to understand their health coverage,” Bjork added. “We want our communities to feel informed and supported, especially during times of change.”

Partnership encourages members, providers, and community organizations to explore the improved website at PartnershipHP.org and visit KeepYourMediCal.org for the latest information about upcoming Medi-Cal changes.
