"As a People's Garden, Gardens by the Bay is committed to being an inclusive garden for all. Through our Gift of Gardens outreach initiative, we work in partnership with social service agencies and volunteers to constantly enhance our offerings and deepen our engagement with the community, so that more people can experience the wonders of nature and all that the Gardens has to offer."

As a national garden and a registered charity with Institution of a Public Character status, Gardens by the Bay is committed to make this world-class horticultural showcase of garden and floral artistry accessible to all.

The Gardens engages its network of partners to support the community through various collaborative efforts and partnerships. Its "Gift of Gardens" initiative curates programmes tailored to the needs of different community groups, such as educational tours, gardening workshops, and events like the Mid-Autumn Festival and the Gardens by the Bay and Mediacorp National Day Concert. These activities promote environmental awareness, healthy living and social engagement among seniors.

Beyond participation, the Gardens also provides a platform for seniors to showcase their talents at major events. For example, the Fei Yue Seniors Pop Band, Rubber Band, was invited to perform at the Gardens by the Bay and Mediacorp National Day Concert 2023. Seniors were also invited to Chinese New Year and Mid-Autumn Festival celebrations, where they enjoyed healthy meals and community performances, experiencing festive joy and a spirit of inclusivity. The Gardens' contributions have played a vital role in enhancing the holistic well-being of seniors, particularly those who are lonely and socially isolated.
