Art has always been a great source of joy for Ms Harn Siow Ping since she was young. However, her parents did not believe that art was a viable career path, and she eventually had to drop the subject.

Despite only being able to pursue Art later in life, Siow Ping was greatly encouraged by the support of her teachers and peers. Now, her newfound skills and a renewed passion for Art have given her a greater sense of satisfaction and fulfilment. She hopes to explore more learning opportunities through the National Silver Academy as she continues her journey in arts and crafts.
