

Bihu Sandhir, MD

Chief Medical Officer
Blanchard Valley Health System

Biography

Bihu Sandhir, MD, is the chief medical officer of Blanchard Valley Health System (BVHS).

Dr. Sandhir spent nearly 25 years in Ohio, spanning Medical Director roles with Kettering Physician Network in Dayton and the Health Alliance of Greater Cincinnati.

She earned a bachelor of medicine and surgery at MS Ramaiah Medical College (Bangalore, India) and a medical degree at the University of Cincinnati. She is board-certified in internal medicine.

Most recently, she served as chief quality officer for AltaMed Health Services, the nation's largest network of federally qualified health centers, in Los Angeles (California).

At AltaMed, she implemented quality improvement initiatives for the nation's largest network of federally qualified health centers. During her tenure, Dr. Sandhir strengthened the organization's ability to capture data on social determinants of health (SDOH) and better help patients address these. She established quality improvement task forces to help with workflow development across all divisions and developed a care model redesign.

Dr. Sandhir is a member of the American Association of Physician Leadership and the American College of Physicians. As a practicing physician, her work caring for complex diabetes patients has led to her inclusion on the American Health Council's "Best in Medicine" listing and Dayton Magazine's "7 Physicians Making a Difference."
