

Celebrating Differences

We Are All Unique - and That's Awesome!

Everyone is different in their own way. When we are kind and respect each other's differences, we make the world a happier place

What it Means to Celebrate Differences:

- Accept people for who they are.
- Be kind even if someone is different from you.
- Learn from other people's experiences and ideas.

Ways People Can Be Different:

- Culture or traditions
- Language they speak
- How they look (hair, skin, clothes)
- Abilities (how people learn or move)
- Interests and hobbies
- Family backgrounds

How You Can Show Respect:

- Be kind and use friendly words.
- Listen when others talk about themselves.
- Ask questions in a nice way.
- Include everyone in games and activities.
- Don't make fun of differences.
- Stand up for someone who is being treated unfairly.

Why Differences Are Important:

- They make life interesting.
- We can learn new things from each other.
- They help us grow and understand the world.
