Screenplay Import

Fuzzlecheck can import all relevant data from your PDF screenplay, saving you a lot of work.

The following elements will be recognized and imported: scene numbers, locations, INT/EXT, day/night information, roles with dialogue and number of script pages.

Screenplay Import works with most common screenplay formats. It is also available in the trial version.

Boards

Fuzzlecheck's main display always shows the schedule boards. The layout is similar to the printed shooting schedule.

In the boards, you can break down your script, enter all relevant project data and specify the desired shoot dates. Schedule your scenes by dragging them on the desired days.

Breakdowns

Fuzzlecheck keeps track of your locations, your cast, all extras and crew members, props, make-up and wardrobe elements and organizes them in lists.

You can also sort these elements by your personal criteria and group them into folders.

In the contacts window, input personal contact data for your actors, their agencies or for shooting locations.

Collaborate

Invite as many users as you'd like & allow them to make changes. Schedule collaboratively in real time!

Artemis was the first digital viewfinder for smartphones. Over the years it has become an indispensable tool for professional filmmakers used by Oscar winners and film students the world over. Every day it helps people line up shots that become the world's favorite moments in film and television. In 2018 Artemis was awarded an Emmy for its contribution to filmmaking, an award for which we are very honoured.

This new version of Artemis includes a wealth of new features including:

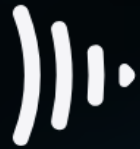

Record video, trim the ends and add custom title cards.

Create custom framelines for any shape size or aspect ratio you like.

A built-in series of "looks" that provide a way to pre-visualise color grading ideas. You can also create your own looks and import Photoshop curves.

oice Dream Reader lets you listen to PDF documents, Web articles, and eBooks using text-to-speech. Although it is designed for people with visual impairment, dyslexia, ADHD, and other reading challenges, everyone can benefit. Your documents become audiobooks, so you can read while you walk, exercise or do chores. For productivity-minded people, with some practice, you can read at twice your sight-reading speed. Unlike audiobooks, you can highlight, take notes, and see the words as they're spoken to impr more

Text to speech from Speechify lets you listen to docs, articles, PDFs, email, and various other formats — anything you read. With 20M+ users, it is the top rated TTS app in the AppStore.
