

Electronic Tax Payment Options

Whether you use the phone app or go online to the IRS website, there are numerous electronic payment options:

IRS Direct Pay

This tool allows individual taxpayers to pay taxes directly from their checking or savings accounts without any fees or pre-registration. It can be accessed through the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) website at

<https://www.irs.gov/Payments/Direct-Pay>

Direct Pay is designed to be an easy, straightforward process but if you need assistance, we've created step-by-step instructions that walk through the entire process from start to finish. Click here to access those instructions.

Debit, Credit Card and Digital Wallet Options

- Pay by Debit, Credit Card or Digital Wallet: Credit or Debit Card Payments: Taxpayers can use IRS-approved credit or debit cards to pay certain types of tax liabilities. However, there may be fees associated with this method.

These processors and fees (updated as of August of 2025) are as follows:

Processor	Debit Card	Credit Card	Digital Wallet
Pay1040.com	$2.15 flat fee	Consumer card: 1.75% fee. Commercial card: 2.89% fee, minimum of $2.50	$1.50 fee for cash payments
Fed.ACIPayOnline.com	Consumer card: $2.10 flat fee Commercial card: $2.95% fee, minimum of $2.50.	Consumer card: 1.85% fee. Commercial card: 2.95% fee, minimum of $2.50	1.85% fee, minimum of $2.50 $1.50 fee for cash payments

Same-Day Wire: For taxpayers who need to make a payment on the same day, this option is available through their financial institution. However, fees may apply, and there may be specific cut-off times for initiating the transfer.

Download the IRS App!

The IRS has a downloadable app for both iOS and Android phones called IRS2Go. With the app, individuals can access the same payment options available on the IRS website, right from their phone.

General

Most states allow individuals to make income tax payments for free via direct debit or e-check on the state's website or via credit or debit card through a third-party provider who charges a convenience fee.

Some states have cutoff times that they use to determine whether payments were made timely. For example, some states required direct debit from a bank account to be initiated by 5 PM the day before a deadline to be considered paid on time. Please check with the states where payments are due for details.
