

PARTNERS GROUP GLOBAL MULTI-ASSET FUND

Monthly report July 2024

July NAV per unit increased by 1.8%

Global markets moved higher in the month of July despite reports of softer results from tech companies and a slight unwinding of the AI trade. Labour data in the US came in below expectations while yields for longer-term debt in the US and Europe declined. In July, US inflation readings continued to show signs of easing, recording a headline consumer price index inflation of 2.9% year-on-year, the lowest since March 2021. Meanwhile, in Europe, wage developments in the region presented upside risks to inflation, and readings showed signs of renewed inflationary pressures. Nonetheless, the risk of higher inflation across key advanced economies is expected to be lower than in previous months.

For the month of July, the performance of Partners Group Global Multi-Asset Fund increased by 1.8%, bringing the returns for the last twelve months to 6.2%. Listed equity assets were the main contributors to performance during the month. Listed Private Equity performed well during the month as transaction activity seemed to gain momentum and private equity vehicles continued to report solid growth in their underlying portfolio holdings. In addition, Listed Infrastructure had a robust month following strong earnings from portfolio companies and lower yields which boosted the performance of certain major sectors such as communication towers and regulated utilities.

Partners Group received proceeds from a dividend recapitalization of KinderCare Education, the largest for-profit provider of early childhood education and care services in the US. The dividend was funded by incremental debt financing and supported by KinderCare's continued positive financial performance.

In addition, Partners Group increased its investment in atNorth, a pan Nordic data center operator, as part of an increased commitment to fund construction of new data center capacity, capitalizing on continued high demand for computing power across the Nordics from Artificial Intelligence and enterprise High Performance Computing customers. Alongside the increased commitment, Partners Group is working with management to upsize atNorth's debt facilities to support the company's growth plans. Since the original investment in January 2022, atNorth is progressing well on its transformation from an Icelandic data center operator with mainly block-chain-related operations into a pan Nordic operator with sites in Iceland, Sweden, Finland and Denmark, and a significant development pipeline to increase its data center footprint.
