Who We Are and What We Do

The Institute of Corporate Directors (ICD) is a not-for-profit, member-based association representing Canadian directors and boards across the for-profit, not-for-profit, credit unions, and Crown sectors. With 17,000 members and 11 Chapters nationwide, the ICD fosters a community of learning, leadership, and impact.

We are dedicated to strengthening trust and confidence in Canadian organizations by developing and activating directors. Through education, advocacy, and thought leadership, we help directors anticipate, influence, and address the complex challenges of board governance.

Our members gain access to world-class programs, including the ICD-Rotman Directors Education Program and ongoing professional development that advances excellence in board leadership. The ICD also offers practical tools, resources, and a strong network of peers to help directors make informed, effective decisions in the boardroom.

Through our advocacy and partnerships, we represent directors' perspectives and promote good governance practices that contribute to better boards, better decisions, and a better Canada.

Matthew Fortier
Interim President and CEO

Matthew Fortier is Interim President and Chief Executive Officer of the Institute of Corporate Directors (ICD), Canada's leading member-based, not-for-profit organization dedicated to advancing board leadership and governance excellence. Mr. Fortier also serves on the ICD Board of Directors and is Executive Director of the Canadian Foundation for Governance Research. He is a recognized public policy leader with over 20 years of experience building meaningful and progressive relationships with decision-makers in Canadian industry, government, and the not-for-profit sector.

Prior to his appointment as Interim President and CEO, Mr. Fortier served as Vice President, Policy and Research at the ICD. In this capacity, he led thought leadership, research and national convening and strengthened strategic engagement with directors, regulators, governments, and industry leaders to advance governance excellence across Canada.

Previously, Mr. Fortier served as President and CEO of Accelerate, Canada's industrial alliance for critical minerals, batteries and the electric mobility supply chain, where he worked closely with mining and advanced manufacturing leaders, and senior government officials to align Canada's auto sector evolution. Earlier in his career, Mr. Fortier was a senior executive at Re:Sound, where he led policy development and government relations strategies on Canadian intellectual property issues. He has also held senior corporate and public affairs positions at TD Bank, TD Securities, and the Business Council of Canada.

Mr. Fortier began his career in Canadian federal politics as a policy analyst. Having worked on policy, leadership and governance issues across North America, Europe, South America and Asia, Mr. Fortier applies a broad lens to his work at the ICD, where he is dedicated to ensuring excellent board leadership is one of Canada's global competitive advantages.
