

Beal

Each summer, the Beal Botanical Garden infuses music, art, science, and sustainability in a series of interactive summer events in the heart of campus. These family-friendly events are free and open to the public.

Each performance begins with drop-in art and science activities, followed by concerts that highlight MSU College of Music's talented student artists - including chamber music, jazz, and vocalists. After concerts, attendees can learn about threatened Michigan plants, pollinator gardens, native plants, and the restoration of the Red Cedar riverbank on campus.
