"This is an absolute 'must do' trip if you like dogs and have any desire to try dog sledding. The tour far exceeded our expectations...we could not have been more pleased with all the activities, the food, the lodging, everything!!"

Nature's Kennel—Michigan's premier dog sledding destination—is nestled in the Eastern Upper Peninsula and is home to 100 magnificent Alaskan Huskies. Your adventure will be led by Tasha Stielstra '98 (MSU College of Education), a seasoned musher who will guide you as you either drive your own dog team or enjoy a ride behind Nature's Kennel's sled dogs. You'll also hear Tasha's story—from MSU graduate to kennel owner—during an insider presentation on the kennel's history and operations. Afterward, immerse yourself in Upper Peninsula winter splendor with a private snowshoe hike through Tahquamenon Falls State Park, led by a park ranger. Finally, enjoy the beauty and wonder of the illuminating Eben Ice Caves and the breathtaking Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore.

"Tasha of Nature's Kennel is the reason this trip was beyond fantastic! She is so very kind and plans exciting adventures!"
