Current Responsibility

Vandana Bhardwaj leads the overall management, P&L responsibility, operations, technical services, and product development functions for Milliman's MedInsight® Practice in India. She joined the firm in 2005 and helped build the MedInsight India Practice.

Professional Work Experience

Vandana possesses 20+ years of diverse technology and business experience, having built and managed insurtech solutions and products for the greater part of her career. In her current leadership role, apart from leading MedInsight operations, she manages complete PLM for health underwriting application (HUMS) and analytics product lines for India. She leads the MedInsight Center of Excellence for Data Intake, focusing on engineering standardized pipelines to manage very large volumes of data. She also works on core organizational level digital transformation initiatives.

Vandana has a good understanding of the U.S. and Indian healthcare insurance industries. Over the course of a global career she has managed engagement teams, projects, and clients for various verticals, including healthcare, insurance, manufacturing, and education. A thought leader, she is part of working advisory committees on health insurance, including prominent Indian industry bodies, like FICCI & CII.
