Current Responsibility

David is a principal with the Life Technology Solutions practice of Milliman and functions as director of operations, managing its operations and security teams.

Joining the LTS practice in January of 2013, he designed, built, and manages the group's global operations structure and Cloud Service Desk, which provides 24/7/365 monitoring and support for the Integrate™ suite of products.

Professional Work Experience

David's information technology experience spans a wide range of products and technologies. He began his technology career working in IT for a Seattle-based non-profit, and later joined Milliman's Employee Benefits practice in 1999.

In 2001, David joined Western Peterbilt, Inc., a Seattle-based Peterbilt truck dealership, overhauling its IT environment and support structure to provide centralized technology services for its 14 dealerships and sales teams in the Western United States.

In 2004, David returned to Milliman, joining the Finance and Corporate IT teams. While working for Corporate, he managed infrastructure and support teams, providing technology solutions, services, and help desk support to Milliman's practices around the globe.

Throughout his career, David's constant foci have been uptime, quality, and customer satisfaction.
