Current Responsibility

Aaron Roszak is a consulting actuary with the Milwaukee office of Milliman. He joined the firm in 2013.

Professional Work Experience

Aaron has over 10 years of experience working with health plans and plan sponsors. Aaron primarily works in the commercial market, assisting health plans with pricing, filing, and reserving. He has experience with Affordable Care Act individual and small group, large group, and level-funded products. As part of Aaron's work with these products, he has experience with rate projection, model development, and the development of assumptions, such as benefit relativities, risk adjustment, and provider reimbursement.

Aaron also has experience with employer-sponsored health plans, assisting clients with budgeting, contribution strategy, benefit design, reserve development, benchmarking, and vendor procurement. In addition, he has supported a benefits administration firm in developing cost estimates used by employees to assist in selecting plan options during open enrollment.
