Current Responsibility

Bryan Wilson is an actuary in the Milliman Employee Benefits Administration & Consulting Practice (EBAC) based in the Dallas office. He joined the firm in 2004.

Professional Work Experience

Bryan's most recent experience has been in employee benefits administration including peer review of more complex benefit issues such as maximum compensation and maximum benefit limits, Qualified Domestic Relations Orders, and disability and death benefits. He has also been involved with numerous lump sum windows, early retirement windows, and plan terminations.

Prior to benefits administration, Bryan worked as a valuation actuary where he assisted both private and public plan sponsors with analysis of plan liabilities and funded status for defined benefit pension plans and retiree medical plans. He also has experience in plan design, testing for coverage and nondiscrimination compliance, and developing forecast models for cost projections.

Bryan started his career with PricewaterhouseCoopers in 1990 working first in the Dallas office, then later in the Houston and Atlanta offices. He then spent several years with two smaller actuarial firms in Austin and Houston before joining Milliman.
