BIOFACH SAUDI ARABIA

The 4th edition of BIOFACH SAUDI ARABIA will take place at the modern Riyadh International Convention & Exhibition Center (RICEC). With about 100 exhibitors and 7,000 visitors we expect flourishing three days in the Saudi capital.

On Saudi Organic Food Day, which is celebrated every year on 11 November, the authorities highlight commendable changes in agriculture and its positive impact on human health, vitality and general well-being. A perfect match with the timing of the exhibition, where topics addressing to the challenges of the local market, such as "water" and "fertilizer", will be featured in the conference programme. Also from a global perspective the water issue as well as the lack of organic fertilizer are increasingly calling for answers. There will be political roundtables and expert panels to discuss them.

Moreover, BIOFACH SAUDI ARABIA is the perfect place for trade connections and making contacts, in a region where the organic food market is expected to gain further momentum in the upcoming years.

Knowledge platform

Experts, politicians and international speakers will come together at the accompanying conference of BIOFACH SAUDI ARABIA to discuss current market issues. Exhibitors can hold presentations, as well as participate in seminars, panel discussions and workshops.

Rising awareness

Rising concerns about the environment, health issues and health benefits associated with organic foods are mainly driving the food market in the MENA region. In addition, rising average annual household spending on food, better accessibility of these products by small and medium retailers, changing lifestyles, implementation of initiatives to encourage farmers to convert to organic farming, and increasing number of organic food producers are driving the growth of the organic market.

Growing market

Shelf space for organic food & beverages has increased considerably in the past years. The MENA organic food market was valued at USD 7 billion in 2022 and is expected to witness significant growth also in the coming years.

High imports

In the MENA region, 70–90% of food requirements are imported. This, as well as a permanently growing population, offers great opportunities for international trade and business contacts.
