

WORKING SAFELY AT THE RAI

Safe Working Practices – updated policy

RAI Amsterdam is committed to ensuring a safe working environment for its staff, organisers and visitors. Our already comprehensive safety regulations have now been further enhanced to comply with Dutch legislation and regulations and meet the increasing demands of international organisers. You'll find the RAI's ten new golden rules listed overleaf.

STARTING 11 APRIL 2024

The first event at which the enhanced policy will be fully in effect and enforced will be Intertraffic 2024, which starts on 11 April.

ACCESS & SAFETY CENTRE

Our new Access & Safety Centre will be located in the Hospitality Crew Centre. This will be the place from which access badges will be issued for the build-up and breakdown of events. The hire and sale of personal protection equipment such as safety helmets and shoes will also be arranged from the Centre, which will be dedicated to helping stand builders and personnel, our own staff and suppliers comply with the new safety regulations.

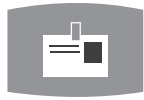

CONCRETE CHANGES

- 1) Everyone must visibly wear a valid badge and safety shoes during the build-up, and have a safety helmet with them. This also applies to the period when the stands are being set up.
- 2) Although the obligation to wear a helmet when the red light is on will not change, there will be specific enforcement via the designation of risk areas to ensure the helmet obligation is aligned to the actual risks. This means that people can be compelled to wear a helmet even when the red light is off.
- 3) The breakdown of events starts 2.5 hours after they have ended. In the meantime, the hall will be prepared for breakdown and people with valid build-up/ breakdown badges are asked to stay away. After this 2.5-hour period everyone must visibly wear a valid badge and safety shoes, and carry a safety helmet.
