

Sodexo appoints Anne Bardot as Group Chief Communications Officer

Paris, March 22, 2021

Sodexo, world leader in Quality of Life services, announces the appointment of Anne Bardot as Group Chief Communications Officer. Reporting to Denis Machuel, Sodexo Chief Executive Officer, Anne Bardot will be a member of the Executive Committee and will join the company in early April.

Anne joins Sodexo bringing a rich, varied, and international experience in communications, brand management, public affairs, as well as strategy. She succeeds Dianne Salt, who returns to Canada and whom the Group thanks for her contribution.

Anne began her career in communications and public affairs in the pharmaceutical industry in 2003 before joining the agri-food and then the communications consulting sectors. In 2010, she joined Air Liquide first leading Communications for the Healthcare World Business Line, and then moving on to become Group Communications Vice President. In this role, for six years, Anne has contributed to many strategic and transformative projects for the company. More recently over the last two years with Air Liquide, Anne has held the role of Vice President of Strategy for the Global Markets & Technologies Business Unit.

Anne holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from IEP Paris, an Executive MBA from HEC Paris and speaks French, English and Russian.

About Sodexo
