About the University of Chicago Medicine

The University of Chicago Medicine and Biological Sciences, one of the nation's leading academic medical institutions, has been at the forefront of medical care since 1927, when it first opened to patients. Today, it comprises the University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine; the University of Chicago Biological Sciences Division, a section committed to scientific discovery; and the University of Chicago

Medical Center, consistently ranked among the best hospitals in the nation by U.S. News & World Report. Twelve Nobel Prize winners in physiology or medicine have been affiliated with the University of Chicago Medicine.

University of Chicago Medicine physicians are members of the University of Chicago Physicians Group, which includes about 900 physicians and covers the full array of medical and surgical specialties. Our physicians are faculty members of the Pritzker School of Medicine.

Chicago Airports

Chicago Midway International Airport (MDW) (8 miles from the hospital)

You can go from Midway Airport to downtown Chicago (the Loop) using the public transit CTA Orange Line. At downtown, Orange Line trains go around the Loop and then back to Midway. Travel time from Midway to downtown is about 20 to 25 minutes. The Orange Line runs from 4:30am to 1:00am every day with more service during weekday morning and evening rush hours.

The Midway Orange Line station is just east of the airport terminal building. It is connected to the airport by an enclosed walkway. At the Airport follow the signs to "CTA Trains" or "Trains to City". An orange line painted on the ground will guide you there.

You will need a CTA fare card to ride the train. Use cash or a credit card to buy a CTA fare card at the vending machines near the station entrance.

The CTA also has nine buses that serve Midway.

Chicago O'Hare International Airport (ORD) (26 miles from the hospital)

You can go from O'Hare Airport to downtown Chicago (the Loop) using the public transit CTA Blue Line. The Blue Line train runs 24 hours a day with more service during weekday morning and evening rush hours.

When you get to O'Hare Airport, ride the Airport Transit System or walk to the Blue Line Station on the lower level of Terminal 2. The Airport Transit System connects each terminal and the parking lots.

You will need a CTA fare card to ride the train. Use cash or a credit card to buy a CTA fare card at the vending machines located near the station entrance

Public Transportation

The Chicago area has one of the largest public transportation systems in the United States.

Places to Visit In Hyde Park and Chicago

Chicago's historic Hyde Park neighborhood is home to many cultural and educational places. During the school year, about 23,000 University of Chicago students, faculty and staff are on campus each day. Many of these people work, go to school, and live in Hyde Park. For more information, visit the City of Chicago's official tourism site at www.explorechicago.org
