

Auto Dealer Regulatory Update

July 2025

Special tax legislation report

A slew of tax changes is coming that will impact auto dealers and their customers. On July 4, President Trump signed into law the One Big Beautiful Bill Act. The legislation is the signature agenda item of the Republicans in Washington. It includes a range of fiscal and policy measures, such as extending expiring tax cuts, modifying federal spending levels, increasing funding for defense and border security, and raising the national debt limit.

Many provisions of the 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act were slated to expire at the end of 2025, including reductions in individual tax rates. A permanent extension of the current tax rates, plus a permanent extension of the Section 199A pass-through deduction are a benefit to dealers organized as pass-through entities, such as S corporations, LLCs, or partnerships. There was no increase in the corporate tax rate, so C corporation dealers were not affected by the fiscal pressures for additional revenue offsets.

The new legislation returns immediate business expensing. Phasing down since 2022, the bonus depreciation provision allows deduction of the full cost of assets in the year they are placed in service. Another provision improved for dealers is the interest expense limitation. The deduction for business interest expense was limited to 30% of what's known as EBIT (earnings before interest and taxes). The new looser limitation now uses EBITDA (earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization), creating a larger pool to apply the 30% limitation and thereby a higher ceiling on the deduction for business interest expense. The estate and gift tax exemption was increased and made permanent to a new level at $15 million per person, or $30 million for joint filers, a benefit for dealers planning to pass down their stores to successors.

There are also many implications for a dealer's customers. President Trump campaigned on creating an auto loan tax deduction. The new legislation includes that, but with some limitations that may cause some confusion for customers. The deduction for up to $10,000 of auto loan interest is limited to new vehicles manufactured in the United States and bought for personal use (not for business or commercial use). The deduction phases out for those with income over $100,000 ($200,000 for joint filers). The deduction is available through 2028 and even includes interest paid in 2025 before the bill was enacted.

Electric vehicle (EV) tax credits were targeted to be cut off as revenue offsets for other policies. The new EV tax credit (30D), the used EV tax credit (25E), and the commercial (or "lease loophole") tax credit (45W) will all be eliminated after September 30, 2025. The tax credit for EV charging property (30C) will be terminated after June 30, 2026. Given the terms of the auto loan deduction, there is a window until September 30 where a customer buying an EV could benefit from both the interest deduction and an EV tax credit.

There is a lot to digest in the bill. The lack of adverse tax rate changes for 2026 coupled with some business-friendly tax provisions creates some operational incentives and planning opportunities for dealerships. Understanding the consumer-facing updates will help dealers navigate customers through the changing tax benefits and limitations within the new legislation.

Zurich

7045 College Boulevard, Overland Park, KS 66211-1523

1-888 835-5063 www.zurichna.com

---

The information in this publication was compiled from sources believed to be reliable for informational purposes only. All sample policies and procedures herein should serve as a guideline, which you can use to create your own policies and procedures. We trust that you will customize these samples to reflect your own operations and believe that these samples may serve as a helpful platform for this endeavor. Any and all information contained herein is not intended to constitute advice (particularly not legal advice). Accordingly, persons requiring advice should consult independent advisors when developing programs and policies. We do not guarantee the accuracy of this information or any results and further assume no liability in connection with this publication and sample policies and procedures, including any information, methods or safety suggestions contained herein. We undertake no obligation to publicly update or revise any of this information, whether to reflect new information, future developments, events or circumstances or otherwise. Moreover, Zurich reminds you that this cannot be assumed to contain every acceptable safety and compliance procedure or that additional procedures might not be appropriate under the circumstances. The subject matter of this publication is not tied to any specific insurance product nor will adopting these policies and procedures ensure coverage under any insurance policy.

© 2025 Zurich American Insurance Company. All rights reserved.

A1-P1049972-A (07/25) P1049972

