

Energy and Power for Builders Risk

Zurich provides specialized Builders Risk solutions for complex energy and power construction projects across renewable generation, conventional power, energy storage, manufacturing and supporting infrastructure.

Specialized energy & power coverage solutions

- Pre-handover operational coverage and contingent business interruption solutions for dependent substations
- Coverage for production tax credit exposures and project delay-related risks, where insurable
- Testing and commissioning coverage tailored to complex power generation, energy storage and manufacturing projects
- Flexible hail and tornado sublimits and deductible structures available, rather than a single combined windstorm approach

Why Zurich

- Lead capacity available supporting large-scale power, energy storage, manufacturing and infrastructure projects
- Admitted energy-specific builders risk forms available across most U.S. states
- Experienced and dedicated Energy and Power Construction underwriting team
- Energy-focused Zurich risk engineers averaging 25+ years of industry experience
- Technical risk engineering reviews of project design, testing, commissioning and natural catastrophe exposures
- Full team collaboration throughout project lifecycle, from planning through completion
- Dedicated Energy Claims professionals averaging 15+ years of industry experience
- Single-point-of-contact claims support available for accounts

Areas of focus

- Simple-cycle, combined-cycle and combined heat and power facilities
- Gas turbine and reciprocating internal combustion engine generation facilities
